

To: Prospective Clients of Construction Specialty Services, LLC
Re: Letter of professional recommendation

To Whom It May Concern:

Cumming Corporation has enjoyed a long and successful working relationship with Construction Specialty Services and we recommend their constructibility reviews. In CSS, we have found an invaluable “second set of eyes” which helps us save our clients’ two most valuable resources: Time and money. Additionally, CSS shares our vision of creating value through proven expertise, lasting relationships based on trust, reliability and delivering results.

Since first working with CSS in 2004, they have consistently provided the Cumming Corporation with quality constructibility reviews. Their product is professional and their reports clearly and effectively communicate conditions within the documents that are not constructable and/or not coordinated. This allows us to effectively manage critical issues and deliver substantial savings of time and money to our clients in the form of reduced RFI’s and change-orders, as well as fewer delays in the field.

In summary, the value and benefit of their service and the real savings produced easily outweigh the cost. I highly recommend Construction Specialty Services and their constructibility reviews. Please contact me if you have any questions about CSS and the services they have successfully provided for us.

Sincerely,

Bill Rodgers
